

Why Hagens Berman Are Your Winning Team

Hagens Berman's team of class action lawyers, have recently been named 'Class Action Group of the Year' by Law360!

When crowning the winner of the award, Law360 took into consideration the significance, size and complexity of litigation provided by all its nominees. The team at Hagens Berman were chosen, standing out from a crowd of 800 applicants in 40 practice areas. Hagens Berman triumphed as they acquired numerous victories and made significant progress in this particular area of law.

So, why did they win this award? What made Hagens Berman the top choice out of 800 teams across the law industry?

Well, the team pride themselves in helping vulnerable people and want to give consumers the chance to take action. In 2020 alone they helped people who were wronged due to COVID 19 profiteers, manufacturers and pharmaceutical companies. This included protecting students and parents who paid tuition fees during the COVID pandemic; pursuing the vehicle manufacturer Fiat Chrysler for a defect causing their engines to stall whilst in operation; and representing owners of Audi cars in respect of a start/stop system defect causing a risk of collision. Not to mention Hagens Berman's action against the well-known manufacturer Apple for signal connection failure in the I Phone XR and protecting people who were affected by a sexual harassment cover up at a high profile public university. These are just a few examples of their incredible work this year and which made this title a well-deserved victory for the law firm – huge congratulations to them for their hard work.

One of Hagens Berman's greatest successes for 2020 has been the $700 million settlement with Mercedes Benz in the US resulting from the dirty diesel emissions scandal and now they have collaborated with Fox Williams LLP to help consumers and fleet operators of affected Mercedes vehicles in England and Wales. Mercedes knowingly programmed its diesel vehicles to produce illegally high levels of nitrogen oxide (NOx) into the environment, to do this the vehicles were fitted with a 'defeat device' to hide the dangerous emissions during testing conditions.
